HISTORY OF NENA

1941 The First New England Numismatic Conference met in Boston at the City Club on May 23rd. Periodic gatherings of New England numismatists had long been advocated by Mr. Shepard Pond and this meeting was occasioned largely through his efforts and held under his chairmanship. The NENA is the direct offspring of this conference and this ideal.

1946 After a lapse of five years, the Second New England Numismatic Conference was held in Boston at the Copley Plaza, under the chairmanship of Henry Schuhmacher, who thought this ideal should be revived.

1947 The Third New England Numismatic Conference met in Providence with Horace Grant as chairman. At this Conference, NENA was baptized and organized as an established Numismatic group embracing the whole of New England, her purposes and ideals were determined, and her first officers elected. By vote of the participants, Harold Whiteneck was installed as the first NENA president.

1948 The Fourth Annual Convention was held in Worcester, with Arthur Moore as chairman. The NENA undertook to publish the "News" and Arthur Moore was elected our second president. With the assistance of Charles Dupont, he also agreed to supervise the publication of the new NENA NEWS, an onerous duty, which both willingly shouldered and capably performed for the next three years.

1949 The Fifth Annual Convention was held in Springfield, with Howard MacIntosh as chairman. At the business meeting, he was elected our new president.

1950 The Sixth Annual Convention was held in Hartford, with Mr. Robbins as chairman. Max Kuhner was elected president and the office of publicity director was established.

1951 The Seventh Annual Convention was held in New Haven, with Walter P. Johnson as chairman. For the first time the length of our convention was extended to include two full days of numismatic activity, an innovation that was favorably received by all participants. This move resulted in a full and active bourse. At the business meeting, a constitution was adopted and Morris M. Gould was elected president.

1952 The Eighth Annual Convention is to be held in Boston, at the Sheraton Plaza, on Saturday and Sunday, the 11th and 12th of October, under the chairmanship of James Ford Clapp, Jr. For this meeting a medal will be struck in bronze, silver and gold commemorating the 300th anniversary of the Pine Tree shilling and this numismatic gathering which we confidently expect will be one worthy of such honor.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To Members and Guests of the NENA:

Welcome to Boston, the home of the bean and the cod and of our Eighth Annual Convention. An excellent program for your entertainment and reception has been arranged by a hard-working and conscientious convention committee. All their plans have been made to share with you a pleasant visit and a memorable numismatic event.

For the NENA, this has been a record-breaking year. Our membership has increased over that of any previous year in our history; corporate membership has been established and most of the New England Clubs have now joined our ranks; our officers have made a determined effort to visit all clubs throughout New England to spread our gospel; tape recorded talks on 15 subjects have been made available to all coin clubs; our directors have met frequently to keep the machinery of our organization well oiled. As a result, we can now look forward with confidence to a record-breaking convention.

At our Eighth Annual Convention, you can expect an unequalled opportunity to meet fellow dealers and collectors, to add to your numismatic knowledge and to talk, buy, sell and trade coins.

While you are with us, be sure to visit the many historic places of interest, the coin shops, the museums and the various other amusements for those of all tastes which may be found in the Hub. Above all, let me have the pleasure of welcoming you in person to this NENA Convention.

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS

The site of the NENA 1952 Convention is in Copley Square, one of Boston's many shrines. In Copley Square is Trinity Church, built for Phillips Brooks, the militant Boston minister of the 1870's, by H. H. Richardson, the architect responsible for the style described today as "Richardson Romanesque." During the construction of this building, Dr. Brooks inveigled Mr. Richardson to read the Bible. Mr. Richardson returned the book with the curt remark "That, Dr. Brooks, was a damn good book!" Trinity Church is recognized today as Phillips Brooks' memorial and Richardson's masterpiece.

Facing Trinity Church is the Boston Public Library, another important example of American Architecture. Designed by McKim, Mead & White in 1898, it set the style for library architecture in this country for the next twenty years. The names inscribed on the corners of this building were placed on the drawings by a draftsman in such order that the first letters, read vertically, spelt McKim-Mead-White. When this was discovered, it was quickly changed on the actual building.

Inside the Library are murals by such well known artists as Puvis de Chavannes and Edwin Abbey. The American sculptor, Frederick MacMonnies, designed a bronze fountain nymph for the central courtyard, but this was too much for the Boston Puritans and it now reposes in the Metropolitan Museum of New York among its most priceless treasures.

Near Copley Square is the new and modern John Hancock Building, the tallest building in Boston, which was awarded the Gold Medal for its architectural design. From the top of this imposing structure, lights signal the weather forecast to all Boston.

Boston, of course, contains many historic examples of Colonial and Early American Architecture, which can be found throughout the older sections. Copley Square is in the Back Bay area of Boston, which was only reclaimed from the sea shortly before the Civil War.

NENA wishes to express her appreciation to the following persons for the assistance and contributions they have made towards a successful Convention.
